Lamentations of a Dad: How Takeaways Led to Comebacks

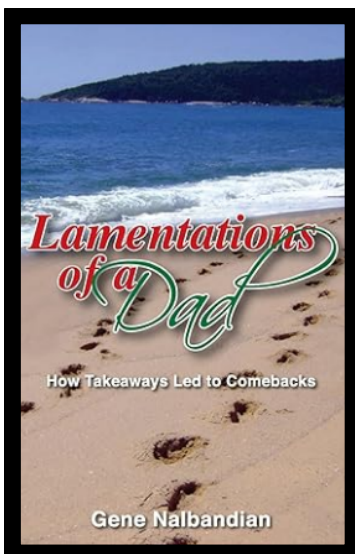

Gene Nalbandian, a resident of Laguna Woods, is known for his best-selling books and is the author of the widely acclaimed “Lamentations of a Dad” denoting a life of fame, success, and stories of Gene’s takeaways and comebacks in his Life journey.

Gene will share some of his stories, beginning with his signing a Major League contract out of College with the Chicago Cubs in the early '60s. During that era, he played with and against the major leagues' best players.

His highly acclaimed career was cut short while pitching in a game when he suffered a devastating arm injury that shattered his boyhood dream.

When Doctors told him he could never pitch again, he enrolled in UCLA Anderson Business School and was hired as the pitching coach of the UCLA Baseball team. He got acquainted with legendary UCLA Basketball Coach who is recognized as the greatest basketball coach of all time and affectionately known as the “Wizard of Westwood”.

Gene has been interviewed on numerous talk and sport shows for his inspiring stories and speaks to Organizations and does book signings throughout the country. His life-changing stories will inspire you and bring laughter and tears to your eyes regarding the many diversities in his life, including the untimely death of his son, who OD'd on drugs due to his addiction to drugs at 26 when he was one of the top World Top Class Surfers.
